INDICATIONS:

- Presence of deep occlusal pit and fissure on newly erupted teeth.
- Presence of incipient lesions in the pit and fissure
- Children and young people with medical, physical or intellectual impairment with high caries risk

CONTRAINDICATIONS:

- Shallow pits and fissure
- Open occlusal carious lesion with extension into dentin
- Partially erupted tooth where isolation is a problem
- Presence of proximal caries extending onto occlusal surface

1. Prophylaxis and polishing of the tooth surface Isolate and dry the tooth surface
2. Acid etching (37% Phosphoric acid) for 30-60 seconds.
3. Rinse and dry the tooth surface until characteristic chalky white enamel frosty appearance

DEFLOURIDATION

Deflouridation is the process of removing excess naturally occuring flouride from drinking water in order to reduce the prevelence and severity of dental flourosis. The process comprises addition of sodium aluminate, lime and bleaching powder to fluoride water followed by flocculation , sedimentation and filtration.

Five established deflouridation methods:
1.Bone charcoal
2.contact precipitation
3.Activated alumina
4.clay
5.Nalgonda techinique

MECHANISM OF NALGONDA TECHNIQUE

NALGONDA TECHNIQUE

Developed by National Environmental Engineering Research Institute (NEERI) at Nagpur.

Mechanism:
* Unit holds 22 litres of water
1.RAPID MIX : Coagulant rapidly and uniformly dispersed throughout for 30 to 60 sec with speed of 10- 20 rpm.Formation of microflocs
2. FLOCCULATION : Second stage of formation of flocs by mixing for 10- 15 min with speed of 2 to 4rpm.
3.SEDIMENTATION : Separation from water of suspended particles
4.FILTRATION : Separating suspended and colloidal impurities through a porous media.The water then allowed to settle.The treated water will be then available for drinking and cooking.

INDICATIONS

*Raw water fluoride ranging from 1.5 mg - 20mg F/L
* Total dissolved solid are below 1500 mg/L
*Absence of acceptable, alternate low fluoride source within transportable distance

SALIENT FEATURES:

*Adaptable for domestic use.
* simplicity of design.
* No handling of caustic acid and alkalies.
* Effective even when dissolved solids are above 1500mg/L and hardness above 600mg/L.
* Little wastage of water.
*No regeneration of media
*Highly efficient removal of fluoride

DEPARTMENT OF PROSTHODONTICS

Teaching learning process of the institution nurtures creativity, analytical skills and innovation among students.

The department provides a platform for exploring the creative side of students by incorporating activities of both creative and cultural art, such as free form making with plaster as a preclinical exercise in first year BDS, involving students in poster and table clinic presentation in various conferences, theatrical play on social issues, development of other crafty oriented skills during celebrations of prosthodontic day, women's day and Onam celebrations.

Department conducts CDE Programmes and value-added programmes which provide hands-on experience and helps in the development of practical skills in students, refine their clinical techniques and helps to stay updated about the newer advancements in prosthodontics. This provides an environment conducive to analytical thinking and skill development.

The smart class room create an environment that supports interactive, collaborative, and technology-driven learning, providing students with the tools and opportunities to develop their creativity and innovative skills. Working on phantom head provide virtual experience of reality that helps to develop analytical skills by engaging in tasks that require critical thinking and problem-solving. They learn to analyze the situation, make decisions, and execute procedures accordingly.

Demonstration of dental procedure can contribute significantly to the development of observational skills, critical thinking. Exposure to various clinical scenarios during demonstrations promotes adaptability. Students learn to apply their knowledge and skills flexibly to different patient cases, enhancing their ability to innovate in diverse situations.

Dental camps present students with real-world dental problems and challenges. By actively participating in diagnosing and finding solutions to these issues, students can develop their problem-solving skills. They learn to analyze the situation, consider different approaches, and implement effective solutions.

Clinico pathological Case discussions provides an interdisciplinary environment encourages students to communicate effectively, consider diverse perspectives, and integrate knowledge from various fields.

Furthermore, students are involved in multitude of research projects each year which encourage them to think creatively, especially when formulating hypotheses, designing experiments, or proposing solutions to existing problems. This creativity is essential for pushing the boundaries of knowledge and generating new ideas.

OGA12 DR.ASWIN S.K

INTRODUCTION

- Recent studies reveals that after correction of mandibular prognathism by BSSO setback there will be decrease in posterior airway space which leads to obstructive sleep apnea (OSA).
- In this study we have used MRI for evaluation of pharyngeal airway space before and after BSSO surgery and clinical evaluation after setback. Along with conventional lateral cephalogram .

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

- Assess the difficulties due to reduced pharyngeal airway space.
- To evaluate the minimum airway space that has to be maintained.

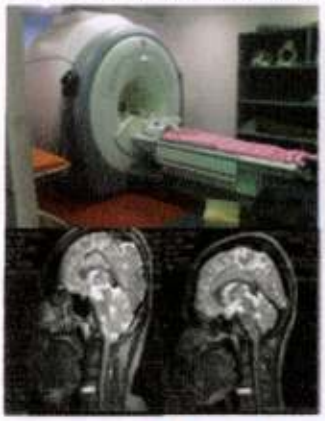

STUDY DESIGN: Longitudinal study

SAMPLE SIZE: 20

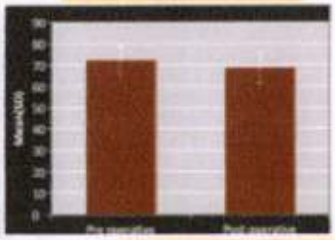

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

- Peterson correlation
- Paired t test

RESULTS

DISCUSSION

PARK et al-Mandibular setback:

- No significant changes in linear, area or volumetric measurements.
- changes in tongue POSITION

LIMITATION

- Sample size- moderately low

Reduction in airway post-operative was more significant than clinical presentations

CONCLUSION

- Kawakami M, Yamamoto K, Fujimoto M, Ohgi K, Inoue M, Kaira T. Changes in tongue and hyoid positions, and posterior airway space following mandibular setback surgery. Journal of Cranio-Maxillofacial Surgery. 2005;33(2):107-10.

A COMPARITIVE ANALYSIS OF TWO DIFFERENT TECHNIQUES OF ALAR BASE CINCH SUTURING IN LEFORT-1 MAXILLARY OSTEOTOMY-A RANDOMIZED CONTROL STUDY

DR APPU MOHAN

INTRODUCTION

Secondary changes -nasolabial region after the Le Fort I osteotomy procedure

- Widening of the alar base of the nose
- Upturning of the nasal tip flattening
- Thinning of the upper lip
- Down turning of the commissures of the mouth

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

To compare and assess the efficacy of the conventional cinch suturing and modified cinch suturing to avoid alar base widening after Le Fort I osteotomy.

SAMPLE SIZE :20

Group I: 10 patients- modified alar base cinch suture

Group II: 10 patients conventional alar base cinch suture

DATA COLLECTION

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

Shapiro-Wilk test

Student t test (Unpaired)

RESULTS

DISCUSSION

Westermark et al AND Mommaerts et al.- reported effective postoperative control of intercanine width after 12 months

LIMITATIONS

- Difficult to measure the alar base accurately.
- Tube may preclude adequate tightening of the cinch sutures
- Orthodontic appliances
- Manual anthroposometry

CONCLUSION

Modified cinch suturing technique is more superior to conventional cinch suturing as it help preserve the natural form of the nose post orthognathic surgery

OGA12 DR.ASWIN S.K

INTRODUCTION

- Recent studies reveals that after correction of mandibular prognathism by BSSO setback there will be decrease in posterior airway space which leads to obstructive sleep apnea (OSA).
- In this study we have used MRI for evaluation of pharyngeal airway space before and after BSSO surgery and clinical evaluation after setback. Along with conventional lateral cephalogram .

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

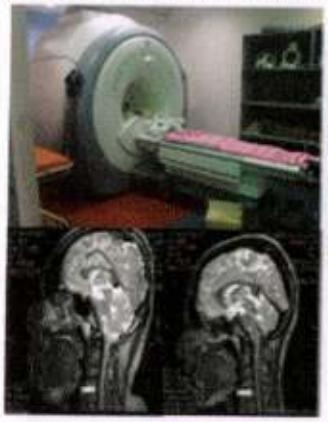

- Assess the difficulties due to reduced pharyngeal airway space.
- To evaluate the minimum airway space that has to be maintained.

STUDY DESIGN: Longitudinal study

SAMPLE SIZE: 20

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

- Peterson correlation
- Paired t test

RESULTS

DISCUSSION

PARK et al-Mandibular setback:

- No significant changes in linear, area or volumetric measurements.
- changes in tongue POSITION

LIMITATION

- Sample size- moderately low

Reduction in airway post-operative was more significant than clinical presentations.

CONCLUSION

- Kawakami M, Yamamoto K, Fujimoto M, Ohgi K, Inoue M, Kurita T. Changes in tongue and hyoid positions, and posterior airway space following mandibular setback surgery. Journal of Cranio-Maxillofacial Surgery. 2009;33(2):107-10.
